Course Description: Students will be exposed to the critical elements of design used to build effective business websites including areas such as graphics, layout, navigation and content issues. Broader issues such as the role of the website administrator and the server support necessary to author and publish websites are also explored. Particular emphasis is placed on the most recent coding languages and techniques that make websites possible.

REC ✓

Rationale for this proposal: This elective course is considered to be a course that is essential to understanding advanced topics in this discipline. Students with an interest in registering in this advanced course will have satisfied course prerequisites that are typically necessary in obtaining credit within professional accreditation programs.
