Justification: The rationale for offering this new courses is that during the 2010 Undergraduate Review the instructor was asked to consider offering courses like those proposed, given his experience in the area. Secondly, the new course is a refinement of, and will replace, a special topic course called "Third World Film in Historical Perspective" that the instructor has taught in the past. Finally, the instructor does not have many course offerings at the 3rd year level and these courses would provide both the instructor and students with new academic options. No budgetary implications.
