

Towards Justice in Research and Teaching: Remaking Power Relations in Archaeology and Beyond

Dr. Lisa Hodgetts
Department of Anthropology
Western University

Lisa Hodgetts is an Associate Professor of Archaeology at Western University and Past-President of the Canadian Archaeological Association (CAA). Drawing on recent CAA efforts and her own community-based research in Inuvialuit Nunangat (the Inuvialuit Settlement Region) she explores recent efforts to address archaeology's colonial history and make the discipline more inclusive. Many of the questions and challenges being faced by archaeologists apply across multiple fields of study, as do many strategies for effecting change.
