

B. P. P. P.
1963

Lakehead's Centre For Place and Sustainability Studies Invites You To:

TELL YOUR STORY

What does sustainability mean to you? Are you involved in a sustainability initiative? Are you concerned about something happening (or not happening) on campus? Are you inspired by the work of an individual or group in our community? What needs to change at Lakehead and beyond? What is your vision for the future? What role has our community played in your experience of sustainability?

Submit your story, art work, film, or photo at:

www.lakeheadsustainability.ca

or mail it to:

The Centre for Place and Sustainability Studies Lakehead University, 955 Oliver Rd, Thunder Bay, P7B 5E1, ON.

~

For every story submitted, $10 will go toward a local ecological restoration initiative.

~

Cover art "Breaking into the blue" by Ayesha Raggi: The white birds symbolize desire for change, yet something is holding them back. This painting depicts a necessary transition, but one that faces the barrier of conventional ways of being and doing.

Habana Gallery by Ayesha Raggi on Facebook

For more information email:

lakeheadsustainability@lakeheadu.ca

Find us on Facebook: Centre for Place and Sustainability
Studies