Pedagogical rationale for this proposal. Why are you submitting this request?:	After considerable conversation, debate and analysis of trends over time, the School of ORPT has decided that significant changes are required to the structure of our program. The proposed new HBOR degree structure reflects changes in industry and society, responses to student feedback and the reduction in faculty complement. We are aiming to provide excellence in programing within the limits of the resources available to us. The first year of our program only had two OUTD courses and our students found that this did not give them a sense of belonging within in the program; we have reinstated a first year course and moved one of our second year courses to the first year. The second year of our program had too many OUTD courses, and students felt overwhelmed. Further, three of our field-based courses fell within this year and the third and fourth years of our program did not have any required field-based courses. As a result we moved one course to first year and made our required field exploration course a full year third year course. Finally, both of our research methods classes fell in the third year, and we found that students were not prepared for various kinds of research projects early enough, as a result we moved one of these to the second year. We have also added required content by making our current elective course on risk management mandatory, reflecting the nature of the changes within industry. We have also added a fourth year, 1 FCE required "career explorations" course, which will give students the opportunity to gain work experience and prepare for the work environment. To address the reduction in our faculty complement, we have combined two of our second year courses (Theory of Parks and Theory of Tourism) into one course. These curriculum changes affect each of our partnering degrees (Geography, History, Natural Science, Women's Studies and Concurrent Education - IS, JI, PJ) all of whom have been consulted and are in favour of the changes. Geography requirements changed from Geog 1120 to Geog 1150 and Geog 1190.

Will this program impact student enrolment in another program within the same faculty/unit?:	No
Will this program impact student enrolment in another program in a different faculty/unit?:	No
Will additional resources be required (space, staff, equipment, etc.)?:	There will be two years of budget implications related to transitioning from the old to the new program. For 2015-16, there will be a one-time only budget implication as we transition the second year course into the first year offerings (See OSAT 1 - OUTD 1310). Two sections of the course will have to be taught, which include risk management personnel and transportation. The cost of this will be $13,000. For 2016-17, there will be a one-time only budget implication as we transition the third year Research Design course into second year. Two sections of this course will need to be taught, requiring a sessional stipend to cover off teaching of a third or fourth year elective. no
