Pedagogical rationale for this proposal. Why are you submitting this request?:	Beginning in the 2015/16 academic year, the Department of Interdisciplinary Studies introduced substantive changes to its HBASc (IS Major)/BEd Primary/Junior degree by offering students the opportunity to add a thematic concentration to their program of study. Three new HBASc/BEd degrees with concentrations in Human Nature, International Conflict & Human Rights, and Social Justice were approved by Senate and are now calendared, and a fourth concentration in Environment in Politics and Culture has been submitted to the Senate approval process in 2016/17. The IS Department now proposes to add four-year BASc/BEd degrees to correspond to the original HBASc/BEd IS Major degree and to the HBASc/BEd IS Major degrees with these concentrations. The four-year BASc option was added to the stand-alone HBASc IS Major in 2015/16, and other departments in faculties across the University have moved to add a non-direct entry four-year Bachelors option to their degree structures, including Honours programs offering concurrent Education degrees with the Faculty of Education. Establishing a four-year BASc option within the IS Major/BEd program and the IS Major/BEd program with concentrations provides benefits to students who are unable to meet the 70% HBASc average requirement and to the University by improving student retention and allowing students to graduate from a four-year program with the concentration before entering the Professional Years in Education. Students who would currently be completing the third year of the HBASc/BEd IS

Major or the HBASc/BEEd IS Major with a concentration but who do not appear likely to meet the Honours average requirement might choose to immediately move to a three-year BASc/BEEd option instead of entering the fourth year of their studies in either the HBASc/BEEd or the four-year BASc/BEEd programs. Furthermore, students completing the fourth year of their HBASc/BEEd studies who have satisfied all of the program requirements of the IS Major or the IS Major with a concentration but who have not met the 70% Honours average are required to retake courses in an effort to raise their average, which has a negative financial impact on students and is frequently not successful. The proposed four-year BASc/BEEd IS Major and BASc/BEEd IS Major with a concentration degrees have the identical program requirements as the respective HBASc/BEEd IS Major and HBASc/BEEd IS Major with a concentration degrees they mirror, with the exception that the minimum average requirements in the Major and concentration will be 60% instead of 70%. Uniform housekeeping changes are being made to all BASc 4 Yr/BEEd degrees with a concentration option: 1) Some of these degrees with a concentration have a first discipline option added (Sociology for the Environment in Politics and Culture concentration, English and Sociology for the Human Nature concentration, and Women's Studies for the Social Justice concentration). 2) The description of the major average calculation has been updated to reflect the true method by which Enrolment Services calculates the major average. 3) The list of eligible courses to satisfy the second year methodology course requirement has been updated. Psychology 2101 is being discontinued and replaced by Psychology 2110 and Psychology 2112 in the list of eligible methodology courses. Political Science 2555 is being removed from the list of eligible methodology courses. 4) The list of eligible courses to be applied to each concentration has been updated by removing courses that have been discontinued and adding courses that have been calendared by other departments in the three years since the concentration lists were originally approved.

Pedagogical rationale for this proposal. Why are you submitting this request?:	Beginning in the 2015/16 academic year, the Department of Interdisciplinary Studies introduced substantive changes to its HBASc (IS Major)/BEd Primary/Junior degree by offering students the opportunity to add a thematic concentration to their program of study. Three new HBASc/BEd degrees with concentrations in Human Nature, International Conflict & Human Rights, and Social Justice were approved by Senate and are now calendared, and a fourth concentration in Environment in Politics and Culture has been submitted to the Senate approval process in 2016/17. The IS Department now proposes to add four-year BASc/BEd degrees to correspond to the original HBASc/BEd IS Major degree and to the HBASc/BEd IS Major degrees with these concentrations. The four-year BASc option was added to the stand-alone HBASc IS Major in 2015/16, and other departments in faculties across the University have moved to add a non-direct entry four-year Bachelors option to their degree structures, including Honours programs offering concurrent Education degrees with the Faculty of Education. Establishing a four-year BASc option within the IS Major/BEd program and the IS Major/BEd program with concentrations provides benefits to students who are unable to meet the 70% HBASc average requirement and to the University by improving student retention and allowing students to graduate from a four-year program with the concentration before entering the Professional Years in Education. Students who would currently be completing the third year of the HBASc/BEd IS Major or the HBASc/BEd IS Major with a concentration but who do not appear likely to meet the Honours average requirement might choose to immediately move to a three-year BASc/BEd option instead of entering the fourth year of their studies in either the HBASc/BEd or the four-year BASc/BEd programs. Furthermore, students completing the fourth year of their HBASc/BEd studies who have satisfied all of the program requirements of the IS Major or the IS Major with a concentration but who have not met the 70% Honours average are required to retake courses in an effort to raise their average, which has a negative financial impact on students and is frequently not successful. The proposed four-year BASc/BEd IS Major and BASc/BEd IS Major with a concentration degrees have the identical program requirements as the respective HBASc/BEd IS Major and HBASc/BEd IS Major with a concentration degrees they mirror, with the exception that the minimum average requirements in the Major and concentration will be 60% instead of 70%. concentration option:1)Some of these degrees with a concentration have a first discipline option added (Sociology for the Environment in Politics and Culture concentration, English and Sociology for the Human Nature concentration, and Women's Studies for the Social Justice concentration).2)The description of the major average calculation has been updated to reflect the true method by which Enrolment Services calculates the major average.3)The list of eligible courses to satisfy the second year methodology course requirement has been updated. Psychology 2101 is being discontinued and replaced by Psychology 2110 and Psychology 2112 in the list of eligible methodology courses. Political Science 2555 is being removed from the list of eligible methodology courses.4)The list of eligible courses to be applied to each concentration has been updated by removing courses that have been discontinued and adding courses that have been calendared by other departments in the three years since the concentration lists were originally approved.
