1.	New Course	Gender, Health & Food Justice

Justification

This course has been offered 3 times as a special topics class, and it is a popular elective for students in the Social Justice Studies Program. Giving the course a permanent cross-listed number will better represent the range of courses available to student considering or entering the Social Justice Studies MA. The course itself is of great appeal to students in the SJS specialization for Gender and Women's Studies, and food justice is a topic of interest to a number of SJS students.
