Title Special Topics in Social Justice
Description In a collaborative setting, students will address complex, interdisciplinary problems in selected areas of social justice. Emphasis will be given to the critical analysis of problems, the development of research questions, applying research methods, and written and oral communication.
End Term No Specified End Date
Institution Lakehead University
Faculty Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities
CreditWeight 0.5 FCE
Rationale This course will be the third year inquiry course for the HBASc Interdisciplinary Studies Major with Concentration in Social Justice. Like INTD 3010: Applications of Inquiry, this course gives students the guided opportunity to "address, in a collaborative setting, complex interdisciplinary problems." By focusing on a specific topic within the realm of social justice, this course builds clearly upon the first year Social Justice Inquiry course and links with other courses in the concentration. Students will know in advance what the topic of the course will be and instructors will have time to prepare meaningful interdisciplinary problem-based exercises. Inquiry skills learned in this course are designed to facilitate student progress in the fourth year inquiry course.

EffectonEnrolmentOTHER
As enrolment for third-year concentration-focused INTD courses increases, requiring more sections of these courses, fewer sections of INTD 3010 will be offered. The total number of INTD courses will not change unless enrolment rises dramatically in the program.
AdditionalTeachingSpace
None, since one (or more if enrollment warrants this) of the currently offered INTD 3010 course sections will be replaced by the Special Topics in Social Justice course. As demand increases for the concentration-specific courses, sections of the current INTD 3010 will be reduced accordingly.
