Rationale In response to our recent Departmental Review, we are removing required courses and empowering students to choose. That said, we are a small department and offer only a limited number of courses across the four years. So effectively students are streamed into the right courses by our limited offerings in any case -- but there is wriggle room for choice, which makes it easier for us as well to manage. In the past missed requirements were routinely offered as unpaid overload. Erasing specific requirements will solve this hr problem. Rationale English has revised all our programs and our curriculum to reflect current teaching expertise, trends in the discipline, and our reduced resources. Primary changes affecting the HBA English & Philosophy program are: 1) a revised lineup of first-year courses, providing majors with more options; 2) a required pair of survey courses at second year, History of English Literature I and II, that are intended to provide our HBA students with a stronger background in the history of English Literature, as well as a cohort-forming experience. Includes changes to Philosophy requirements.
