Title Foundations of Environmental Thought and Policy
Description A course that examines both applied and practical environmental philosophy in the study of human-environment interactions. Various principles and policies for analyzing assumptions, methods and environmental movements such as ecofeminism, bioregionalism and environmental pragmatism, will be studied.
End Term No Specified End Date
Institution Lakehead University
Faculty Faculty of Science and Environmental Studies
CreditWeight 0.5
Rationale The foundations of environmental thought and policy is an introduction to applied and practical philosophy essential to the study of human-environment interactions and important to an intellectual grounding of principles and scientific foundations of environmental thought for students in the Environmental Sustainability Program. The course will enhance the critical understanding and reflection of the relationship between policy and the evolution of environmental movements and activism from the standpoint of sustainable development in both the developed and developing worlds.
