

---

Lakehead University, 2005

Humanities 101: A Lakehead University Community Initiative

FOUNDING DIRECTOR: Dr. Christina van Barneveld, Office BL1022C
CONTACT: tel. 807-343-8330,
EMAIL: cvanbarn@lakeheadu.ca

Course location: BL1022
Course time: Mondays, 6:00pm – 9:00pm (light meal at 5:30pm)

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This multidisciplinary course is an introduction to basic issues in the humanities – the study of human thought and culture. It is intended to cover a broad spectrum of topics including (but not limited to): Social Work; Aboriginal Studies; Women's Studies; Anthropology; English; and Philosophy. The course has five main goals:

- To introduce students to the excitement and interest that accompanies the discovery and creation of knowledge.
- To provide students with an understanding of the contributions that the humanities have made to social and cultural practices.
- To acquaint students with the potentials benefits of higher education experiences.
- To provide assistance to overcoming barriers to higher-level educational experiences.
- To provide an opportunity for students to explore university-level education.

TEXTS

There are no texts for this multidisciplinary course. Articles, poems and other readings will be distributed in class.

COURSE CONTENT and SCHEDULE

	Topic	Professor
Aug. 29th	Social Welfare: the role of commonality, mutuality and equality in supporting humanization and the common good	Dr. Roger Delaney, Professor and Director, School of Social Work
Sept. 5th	JAPANADA Assimilation Game	Prof. Delores Wawia, Assistant Professor/Native Elder Faculty of Education
Sept. 12th	Social Work: opposing oppression as a social control	Dr. Roger Delaney, Professor and Director,, School of Social Work
Sept. 19th	Communication Techniques of Native People/Residential Schools	Prof. Delores Wawia, Assistant Professor and Native Elder Faculty of Education
Sept. 26th	Anthropology/ Women's Studies	Prof. Clara Sacchetti-Dufresne, Faculty, Anthropology
Oct. 3rd	Politics of Community Development	Dr. Doug West, Associate Professor Political Science
Oct. 10th
Oct. 17th	Figurative Language in Poetry and Music	Dr. Gillian Siddall, Associate Professor and Director of the Office of Instructional Development English
Oct. 24	Social Work	Prof. Raymond Neckoway, Assistant Professor School of Social Work
Oct 31st	Social Work	Prof. Raymond Neckoway, Assistant Professor School of Social Work
Nov. 7th	Plato & the Birth of Philosophy	Dr. Todd Dufresne, Associate Professor and Department Chair Philosophy
Nov. 14th	Postmodernism & Consumer Culture	Dr. Todd Dufresne, Associate Professor and Department Chair Philosophy

ASSIGNMENTS AND DUE DATES

Assignments will be given at the discretion of the professors. If the professor opts to give you an assignment, he/she will describe guidelines for it during class time. You may request feedback on the assignments that are submitted. Due dates will be determined at the time that the assignment guidelines are provided.

EVALUATION

Since this is a non-credit course, no grade (pass, fail or letter grade) will be provided. There will be opportunity to obtain feedback on your progress multiple times during the course and share ideas for your future after the course, if you wish.

SUPPORT FOR STUDENTS

Community Service Agency Personnel have recommended you for the course. These individuals have agreed to support you with kind words of support during the course. They are an invaluable resource for you if you are feeling anxious about this educational experience. Please don't hesitate to talk to them about anything.

Lakehead University Mentors are graduate students who have volunteered to help you with orientation to the university and academic issues that might come up during the course. They can tell you where things are, help you search the library, use the computers, proofread any assignments, and generally commiserate about concerns that all new students experience. Ask them questions, they want to be helpful to you! They can go with you to talk with the professor, if you are shy to approach the professor directly. They each have unique stories about how they got here, and can share information about the university community.

Lakehead University Professors have volunteered to lecture for this course. They are not being paid and it is not part of their workload. They are experts in their fields and are happy to discuss course topics with you. Don't hesitate to approach the professors with questions, comments and clarifications. They love their topic and are here to support you.

Volunteers will be popping in and out of class from time to time. They too are here to help you, if you want it. Please feel comfortable to approach anyone.

The Director is responsible for the development and administration of the course. She will, from time to time, come to class and ask for your feedback on how things are going so far. The purpose of this is to learn FROM YOU what is working well...and not so well. The goal is to use information to improve the course for future students. Please feel free to be candid during these sessions.

Other students. Yes, other students can have an important influence on your learning experience. The truth of the matter is no one succeeds alone. We all need each other to clarify information, validate ideas and challenge assumptions. By respectfully discussing issues with other students, you can gain greater knowledge about a topic.