CONTENT

This course introduces students to the basic concepts and notions of Political Science in the areas of political theory, comparative politics, public administration and international relations. As such, the course offers a survey of the basic concepts, which animate discussion about the nature of society, government and politics. Examples will be drawn from Canada as well as from other countries of the world.

OBJECTIVES

The objectives of the course are as follows:

- a) to serve as a preparatory study for students majoring in Political Science and as a general overview for students of other concentration;
- b) to understand the nature and scope of Political Science and how it affects people's life directly and indirectly
- c) to understand the reasons why Political Science should be studied by the Canadians in particular; and
- d) to build the foundation of students in Political Science for future courses in the subject.
