COURSE DESCRIPTION

Welcome to SOC 2111 Perspectives in Social Thought. In this course, we will begin to explore social theory and its usefulness as a tool to analyze and explain the complexity of ‘everyday’ life. Sociological theory is concerned with power at both the macro and micro levels of social life and the questions of agency versus structure. Macro sociological theory focuses on social structures, which can shape the social actions of individuals (for example: capitalism, labour, bureaucracy, migration, education, gender, etc.) whereas micro sociological theory focuses on individual and interpersonal actions and experiences or behaviours. Significantly, we will contextualize our understanding of these theoretical positions through the lens of culture and begin from the position that individuals are shaped and constrained by social structures. Through this course, you will be introduced to classical and contemporary sociological theory and important social theorists, who have shaped the discipline of Sociology.

First, we will begin with classical social theory and investigate the macro theories of functional theorists Karl Marx, Emile Durkheim, Max Weber and Talcott Parsons. This will follow with a close examination of some of the contemporary key micro sociological theories including symbolic interactionism, phenomenology and ethnomethodology. We will cover the influential ideas of George Herbert Mead, Herbert Blumer and Erving Goffman, all of whom were concerned with social meanings and social behaviours. Finally, we will examine the contemporary feminist sociological theories of Dorothy Smith and Patricia Hill Collins and introduce an important critique of modernity: postmodernism.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Formulate an understanding of foundational sociological theory;
- Explore the development of Sociology as an Academic Discipline and Social Science;
- Develop a critical understanding of key macro and micro social theories;
- Recognize and use social theory to explain everyday life; and
- Expand and develop university-level analytical and writing skills

Plagiarism shall be deemed to include:

1. Plagiarism of ideas as where an idea of an author or speaker is incorporated into the body of an assignment as though it were the writer's idea, i.e. no credit is given the person through referencing or footnoting or endnoting.
2. Plagiarism of words occurs when phrases, sentences, tables or illustrations of an author or speaker are incorporated into the body of a writer's own, i.e. no quotations or indentations (depending on the format followed) are present but referencing or footnoting or endnoting is given.
3. Plagiarism of ideas and words as where words and an idea(s) of an author or speaker are incorporated into the body of a written assignment as though they were the writer's own words and ideas, i.e. no quotations or indentations (depending on format followed) are present and no referencing or footnoting or endnoting is given.

The following rules shall govern the treatment of candidates who have been found guilty of attempting to obtain academic credit dishonestly.

(a) The minimum penalty for a candidate found guilty of plagiarism, or of cheating on any part of a course will be a zero for the work concerned.

(b) A candidate found guilty of cheating on a formal examination or a test, or of serious or repeated plagiarism, or of unofficially obtaining a copy of an examination paper before the examination is scheduled to be written, will receive zero for the course and may be expelled from the University.

COURSE EVALUATION

Participation.....	10% (On-going)
Mid-term Test	20% (Thursday Feb 12)
Response Papers (4 x 10%).....	40% (Due: can be handed in on 4 weeks of your choice)
Final Exam.....	30% (Date set by Registrar)

Please Note: All assignments must be typed double-spaced using 12 font with 2.54 cm margins. Please include a title page with the title of the assignment, your name, the due date, and my name. All written work will be evaluated based on organization, presentation, grammar and clarity as well as content. For your own protection, keep a hard copy of all work submitted for this course.

EVALUATION INFORMATION

All assignments and tests will be discussed in class and you will have the opportunity to ask questions about expectations.

1. Participation - 10% (On-going)

Your participation mark will reflect your attendance, in addition to your level of engagement and willingness to talk about the course materials. Therefore, it is imperative you come to class having done the readings and be prepared to discuss key ideas, your reflections and any questions you may have arising from the readings.

2. Mid-term Exam - 20% - Thursday, February 12th IN-CLASS

The Mid-term exam will cover all Readings, lectures and course material covered Week 1 through Week 5. Details will be discussed in-class prior the exam.

3. Response Papers - 40% (10% x 4)

* 2-3 pages, double-spaced, 12 font

You are required to write four (4) Response Papers over the course of the Term. The topic you respond to will relate to the weekly readings (see the following weekly Reading Schedule). The Response Paper is due at the beginning of class on the Tuesday for the week that you are responding too. For example, if you choose to write a Response Paper to Week 3 Readings, then the paper will be due at the beginning of class on Tuesday January 20th.

Expectations for your Response Papers

In the Response Paper you will respond to the theoretical consideration under question for that particular week's readings. In one page, you can briefly synthesize the main points covered. This should follow with a critical response to the Reading by drawing on one theoretical idea and demonstrate your engagement with the author's ideas and the weekly topic under discussion by making a connection to something in your own everyday life. This may include using a direct quote, properly referenced, to anchor your ideas. Use the theory to make a connection with your life! For example, you can explain something or an issue you have heard about in the media, through friends/family and through your everyday interactions. Please remember that the point of the exercise is not to produce a summary but engage in a critical reading and analysis exercise. Finally, ensure you reference properly and cite all author's work.

4. Final Exam – 30%

The Final Exam will be cumulative and cover all Readings, lectures and course material, however the majority of the questions will test you on content covered after the mid-term exam. Details will be discussed in-class prior the exam.

NOTE: The exam will be scheduled by the Registrar and cannot be changed for your personal plans. Do NOT make assumptions about holidays, travel or departure from Thunder Bay until the exam schedule is posted.
