A. OBJECTIVES AND CONTENTS:

This is an introductory course on world politics. Its purpose is to acquaint the students with the theoretical and conceptual frameworks, to the fundamental concepts and notions of International Politics which will enable them to analyze particular political issues and events of world politics.

The course will be divided into two parts. The first part will focus on the basic concepts of International Relations and the second part will focus on the International System which deals with interactions among nation states in world politics. The first part covers not only the conceptual debates, but also the historical background to the theory of international relations. The second part examines contemporary discourses in world politics, such as security, terrorism, north-south relations, multinational corporations, trade, development, and conflicts.
