Q: When can I apply for 2022-23?

Applications will open in late fall of 2021 for the 2022-23 academic year. Applications close Dec 15th, 2021.

Q: The application deadline is December 15th. Does that mean all documentation must be provided by the 15th?

Yes. In order to be considered your application and supporting documentation needs to be submitted by the deadline date. The review committee will begin reviewing applications almost immediately following the deadline date, and will not review applications that are missing required documents.

Q: Can I continue to submit documentation to complete my application after December 15th?

No. All documents must be uploaded and your complete application submitted on/before the application deadline date in order to be considered. Any documentation provided after the deadline date (eg: updated transcripts) will not be considered by the admissions committee.

Q: Do I need to secure a Supervisor before I apply?

No. Applicants do not need to secure a supervisor. Applicants are asked to indicate their top 3 potential supervisors on their application in order of preference. Once an applicant meets the acceptance threshold, as determined by a review committee, offers will be made based on supervisor fit and availability until the program is full.

It is highly recommended that applicants review Faculty research areas and interests (available to view on the Psychology department home page) and contact potential supervisor(s) about their research and supervisor availability via email before listing potential supervisors on their application.

Q: Are GRE scores required?

No. For the 2021/22 admissions cycle, our program has waived the GRE requirement. GRE scores are not required and will not be considered for the current application cycle (even if you provide them).

Q: I think that COVID-19 has negatively impacted my application. What should I do?

Applicants can describe if and how COVID-19 impacted their application (for example, final grades, thesis research, conference presentations). Look for the "COVID-19 impact" section in the application steps.

Q: What is the minimum average that is required for the MA Clinical program?

Applicants must have a minimum average of 75% in order to apply to the MA Clinical program. Applicants are assessed based on the entirety of their application. However, to help applicants gauge their competitiveness, the following data are provided (based on applicants who received offers for Fall 2021):

- Admission average: 88.7%; range: 82.4 – 96.5%
- Average Psychology GPA (based on undergraduate psychology courses): 89.1%
- Range: 81.0 – 97.3%

Q: How is the admission average calculated?

The admission average will be calculated using the last 10 undergraduate degree level full course equivalents (not including college transfer credits) completed at the time of application. If credits are in-progress at the time of application, they will not be used to calculate an admission average. Graduate courses, college transfer credits, CEGEP, first year level courses and Secondary School courses are not considered as part of the admission average calculation.

Q: Do you accept any degrees other than an Honours Psychology degree?

No. The MA Clinical program requires an Honours Bachelor of Arts or Science Degree with a major in Psychology.

Q: I don't have an Undergraduate Thesis, can I still be considered without it?

No. Applicants are required to have completed an undergraduate Thesis (or equivalent).

Q: My Undergraduate Thesis is not in the area of Psychology, can I still be considered?

No. Applicants are required to have completed an undergraduate Thesis (or equivalent) in Psychology.

Q: What do you look for in a successful applicant? How can I be competitive?

Applicants are rated for admissibility by a review committee based on the following:

- GPA (and particularly the average in all Psychology courses)
- ~~GRE scores~~ ** Due to COVID-19 GRE scores are not required or accepted for applications due December 15, 2021
- Research experience and activities (such as volunteer/paid positions, conference presentations, publications, thesis, etc.)
- Reference letters
- Personal statement of interest
- Applicants can describe if/how COVID-19 impacted their application

The clinical programs are competitive, and students should keep in mind that they are competing with the pool of applicants for that year.

Q: Who should my required 3 references be from?

The reference letters (3) should be from faculty or academic/professional supervisors with whom you have a history, such as someone you worked for as a student researcher, or who you have met with several times throughout a semester and therefore is familiar with your work. The goal is to ask someone who knows you well, and someone who can comment on the areas assessed (e.g., academic preparedness, oral and written communication skills, initiative, judgement, research skill, and overall academic ability). The referee will also be asked to comment on your professional suitability for clinical training (e.g., ability to function well under stress, sensitivity to others, awareness of interpersonal impact, receptiveness to constructive feedback, professionalism).

We strongly recommend that one of the references be from your thesis supervisor. References should not be from a family member or friend.

Applicants can choose to provide a fourth reference, focused only on professional suitability for clinical training, should they so desire. This should be someone different from the three required references, above. This fourth (clinical) reference is entirely optional.

Q: What if a referee cannot comment on my professional suitability for clinical training? What if they only know me in a research/academic capacity?

Many academic/research supervisors will also be able to comment on your suitability for clinical training (e.g., ability to function well under stress, sensitivity to others, awareness of interpersonal impact, receptiveness to constructive feedback, and professionalism). However, referees can also indicate “no basis for judgement” if they do not have enough information to make an informed judgement.

Applicants can choose to provide a fourth reference, focused only on professional suitability for clinical training, should they so desire. Once again, this reference should not be from family members or friends, but rather should be from a person who knows you in an academic or relevant professional context. This should be someone different from the three required references, above.

** Note that the three (3) required reference letters also ask referees to comment on these areas; the optional clinical reference is intended for applicants who wish to provide another DIFFERENT referee who can comment specifically on the areas listed above.

Q: You require a CV, what information should I include?

The CV should focus on relevant postsecondary education and experiences.

You can learn more about a CV here.

Q: Do you require an interview?

No. There is no formally scheduled interview required as part of the admission process. However please refer to the question about potential supervisor(s) above.

Q: I have questions about the application or my application status, who can I contact?

If you have questions about the application assessment process, please contact the Clinical Psychology Program Admissions Team by emailing apply.psych@lakeheadu.ca
